

Copyright

Most of the material on the site was contributed by the electric clock community world-wide (including contributions from our own collections).

However there is also material on the site where we seriously did our best to try to find the right owners but did not succeed. If you do find such material please let us know and we will take immediate appropriate action.

To avoid publishing copyrighted material we also ask you as a contributor to send only your own material or material of which you have ascertained that it is not copyrighted.

Thank you.